

A PILOT'S NIGHTMARE

Hijacker
hijacking my plane!

IT WAS A LONG AND TIRING FLIGHT FROM SHANGHAI TO THE U.S. AND EVERYBODY ON THE PLANE WAS EXTREMELY EXHAUSTED.....

Our plane was just about to land in the J.F.K. airport in New York when I realized two men paragliding towards our plane. A few moments later, the two men had reached for the front door of the plane and were pulling it open. I became a nervous wreck because I noticed that both men were really muscular. They were yanking the door open as if they were ripping a piece of paper. Before I had time to react, they had ripped the door apart and charged in. Everybody screamed and one of the kids even ran around the airplane like a maniac.

One hijacker commanded his partner, "I'll take the money and you'll hijack the plane and then we'll take off." The other hijacker ran down the corridors and started jabbing people with his knife. He kept asking if they were Rudy Giuliani; the New York mayor whom I did not realize was on the plane. Just then, I heard a "crack" and before I knew it, the door that separated the cockpit and the first class was lying on the floor helplessly and in stepped a muscular guy.

Hijacker's questioned passengers.

The other guy ran up to me and started kicking and punching me in the face. He tried to grab the steering wheel to make the plane go downwards and crash into a building.

Seconds later, this strong and courageous passenger left out of his seat, ran up to the hijacker, and wrestled him to the ground. Then, he took down the other one as easy as pie because he was really nimble and just back flipped around the room dodging the hijackers' attacks. Most of the time, he had been waiting for the bad guys to waste their energy. A few minutes later after both of them had wasted their energy, the mysterious passenger took their masks off and he dialed a few numbers.

MOVE OVER!

Shortly after, a big plane was hovering over ours. A robot from the other plane took out a gun and aimed it at the hijackers. After the robot fired the gun, a black hole appeared on the top of our plane. The hijackers were sucked into the black hole. Seconds later, we saw the hijackers reappearing inside an old and dirty cell in the other plane.

After that, I asked the mysterious passenger who he was and he said that he was an undercover cop who was disguised as a passenger because he knew there was going to be a hijack. He said that I could also join in their team, but I just wanted to stay as a pilot because I think it's a great job. I turned down the offer and said, "Actually I think being a pilot is just more suitable for me." And he told me that he would always reserve a spot for me in their team.

When all the passengers got off the plane I was ready to go home, and I stopped by the office to tell the other pilots what had happened on that plane ride. And I went back home to get a good night's sleep.

When I woke up the next morning, I found a certificate, a medal, a few thousand dollars and a note on the desk beside my bed. The note said,

Dedicated to Sean Meng,

Thank you for saving hundreds of innocent souls and capturing a group of hijackers.

*Yours truly,
Rudy Giuliani*

Actually I think the award should go to the undercover cop. When I went to work the next day, I was placed under the "Best pilot of the year" list and everybody congratulated me and said I was really courageous. I hope I can have another adventure like this one!
